PENSION POINTERS.

Inquiries Answered and Suggestions Made.

O. D., Canton, S. D.-A decision of the Secretary of the Interior in a claim for re-rating of pension may be reconsidered at any time if a motion therefor is filed with the Secretary. M. J. B., Monticello, Mo.—A sister-inlaw would have no title to bounty due a deceased brother-in-law.

V. F. H., Wanpaca, Wis.—No law has been passed by Congress allowing soldiers of the rebellion $12 per month when they have reached the age of 75 years. There was a ruling made in 1893, by the Pension Bureau, that the maximum rate of $12 per month allowed by the act of June 27, 1890 should be allowed in all claims for invalid pension under the act, in which the applicants were 75 years old.

F. L., N. Y.-It is held that desertion from service subsequent to the war of the on is not a bar to invalid pension under the act of June 27, 1890, on account under the act of June 27, 1890, on account of rebellion service.

J. W., Waelder, Tex.—Ex-Confederates who enlisted in the U. S. Army or Navy and incurred disability in line of duty in such service may obtain pension under the general law. But their Confederate service is now held as barring them from pension under the act of June 27, 1890.

F. D. B. Woodhull, N. Y.—When a refrom the medical examination had in the case appealed, without regard to a subsequent application and examination dur-ing the pendency of the appeal.

G. W. D., Toledo, Ohio,—There was no bounty law of September, 1863. The re-cruit bounty of $300 was exceptionally allowed to certain Illinois, Indiana and Ohio regiments in September, 1863, by an order of the War Department. There was a joint resolution of Jan. 13, 1864, ex-tending to March 1, 1864, the allowance of the veteran bounty of $400 and recruit bounty of $300 previously authorized by joint resolution of Dec. 23, 1863. P. E. W., Seneca, Mo.—Only certain provisional regiments organized from the Missouri Enrolled Militia, in 1863, are en-all souri Faronea shifts, in 1995, at Carlotte to pension under the general law and act of June 27, 1890.

M., Conover, N. C.—The sum of ratings 6-18 and 10-30, rendered in dollars, is $16. But that would not likely be the rate allowed. It would be more likely to be $12 than $16. If the attorney you appointed in your pension case was in good standing at the Pension Bureau and you had not previously appointed some other attorney, it is not clear why the attorney was not recognized.

S. M., Brilliant, Ohio.—Under the act of June 27, 1890, the rate allowed for loss of an eye is $6; for total deafness of one ear and severe of the other, $8. There is no fixed rate for disability from dys-pepsia. If you are drawing only $6, it is probable that you should have a higher rating.

J. S., Belfast.—When a claim for increase on pensioned disabilities is rejected, it is usually the better course to file a new application for increase. There is not much use in appealing to the Secretary of the Laterier unless a certain specified rate. provided by law for a certain condition or disability is claimed.

A. R. K., Clay City, Ill.—After completing evidence is filed in a pension claim probably the claimant should wait six months before calling up the case.
R. T. H., Ottawa, Canada.—Unless

there appears a reason why a deceased soldier did not receive full bounty and pay due and payable him at the time of death there is no use in the heirs applying for arrears of pay and bounty after his decease. In the case you refer to no reason appears for the soldier not having received everything that was due him, unless he was discharged the first time for wound or injury incurred in line of duty, but not or injury incurred in line or duty, but here in battle, and has collected no bounty since Fifth Corps.

S. L. S., Wakeeney, Kan .- The statement of the Pension Bureau that you have no case pending is evidently a mistake. Perhaps your letter to the Secretary of the Interior was not of such a character as to entitle it to be treated as an appeal. Appeals should fully describe the case, including especially the number under which it is filed in the Pension Bureau.

J. J. C., Drownville.-Appeals are addressed to the "Secretary of the Interior. at Washington, D. C. If you wish to apreal a rejected claim for increase on nen sioned disabilities, the appeal should be made within three months after the date of the notice of rejection. After making the appeal in the rejected case, a new application for increase may be tiled. The new application may be filed at once. All appeals should set forth the objection to the decision rendered by the Pension

ADMIRAL MEADE.

Beautiful Tablet to His Memory at Annapolis. Impressive and beautiful exercises were held on Memorial Day in the chapel of the Naval Academy at Annapolis, when a memorial tablet to the late Admiral Richard Worsam Meade was installed. The memorial was the gift of Lafayette Post, No. 40, Department of New York, G. A.R., Grand Army. of which the late Admiral was Commander at the time of his death in May, 1897, and about 150 members of the Post came on a special train from New York to be present at the services. A party went from Washington, including Mr. Frank W. Hackett, Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Rear-Admiral W. K. Van Reypen, Rear-Admiral R. P. Bradford, Captain Samuel C. Lemly, Captain Theo. F. Jewell, United States Navy, and wife: Captain Charles D. Sigsbee, United States Navy, and wife;

The exercises began with the singing of "My Country, Tis of Thee," and the memorial was then dedicated by Lafayette Post, of New York, under direction of Commander Allen C. Bakewell.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Col. Bakewell delivered an address, in which he reviewed the brilliant career of Admiral Meade and touched eloquently upon the sentiments inspired by the day. Comfrom which it will be seen that in a case like the one specified the widow would not be eligible to restoration.

This is the ruling in full:

"That the person to whom element was like the distribution of the Naval Academy, responded briefly. Assistant Secretary Hackett, in whose honor a salute was fired from the Academy battery upon his arrival, made a pleasant address. in which he conveyed the personal thanks of President McKinley to Lafayette Post, not only for the tablet to Admiral Meade, but for its ever-devoted work in behalf of the soldiers and sailors.

The memorial is a striking one. Upon a tablet of Tennessee marble is a bronze plate bearing a lifelike bust of Admiral Blind Fishes.

"Fishes," said an old fisherman, "are especially liable to injury to the eyes. Among the fishes taken in nets there are always likely to be found some that had suffered some injury to the eye, and the number in some cases would be large,

"The reason for this is very simple. The feet of the schools, many fishes together, and closely herded. Moving thus gether, and closely herded. Moving thus they are likely to jostle and rub against one another. If they are frightened then the danger from this source is greatly increased.

The piteous crees of the when you offered your lives; When you bared your breasts to the conflict, as you gathered in battle array. We remember your courage and valor, when the blue met the legions in gray.

"Take, for instance, a school of menha-den chased by bluefish. In their fright and their eagerness to escape they rush off wildly, crowding and smashing together, and sometimes actually pushing, in their wild rush, up out of water onto "The frightened fishes would in such cases flee like a herd of stampeded cattle on the land. The cattle would, some of them, be trampled down and killed, and would have legs broken and some would lose their horns, and so on. The fishes would suffer injuries in like man-ner, and the eye, being an exposed and easily injured part, they are particularly liable to injury there. "Blind fishes, or fishes with impaired sight, suffering from injury or perhaps from disease following injury, are caught with the rest simply because they stay with them. They do not, because of their blindness, get lost.
